Margaret Chase Smith Spends a Week at Juniata

Margaret Chase Smith, the only woman who has served in both houses of Congress, spent an entire school week recently (Nov. 4-8) on the Juniata campus. She came to the College as a Woodrow Wilson Senior Fellow and during her visit spoke in a number of classes and in three afternoon panel discussions.

She also chatted informally with students, faculty members and community residents who clustered around her in small groups in hallways, during meals in the Baker Refectory, and at receptions. It was a golden opportunity for Juniatians to see and meet one of the most widely known political figures of the past three decades.

Mrs. Smith served in the U.S. House of Representatives for eight and a half years and in the Senate for 24 years before she retired in 1973. When she campaigned in 1960 for her third term, she compiled what was then an all-time record for votes in Maine as she received some 7,600 more than the previous record set by President Eisenhower four years earlier. Moreover, her winning percentage was the highest of any Republican Senatorial candidate.

YEAR DEVOTED TO WOMEN

That Mrs. Smith should visit Juniata this fall is particularly appropriate. The College has selected "Women" as the theme for the 1974-75 academic year. In addition to being the only woman elected to serve in both the House and the Senate, she was the first woman nominated for the presidency at a national convention of a major political party. Throughout much of her life, she has excelled in fields traditionally dominated by men. Before she was elected to public office, she was a syndicated columnist and a woolen company executive.

A lifelong Republican, but firmly determined to be guided by her own principles and views, Mrs. Smith has been harshly criticized at times by both liberals and conservatives. She was a member of the Armed Services Committees of both the House and the Senate, but in 1969 she strongly opposed the building of the Safeguard anti-ballistic-missile system because she thought it was too costly and that it would soon be obsolete. She was one of the first to publicly oppose the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy and to suggest impeaching former president Nixon. And she has opposed granting amnesty to those who refused to serve in Viet Nam.

In a press conference at Juniata, she was asked about a recent article in Newsweek, which was generally complimentary, but suggested that she has not been a very loyal Republican.

ALWAYS DID "HOMEWORK"

"Newsweek has been very kind to me on a number of occasions and I'm flattered that they're still aware that I'm around," she said, "but I have never neglected my party responsibilities." She then cited her record of being present for more than 2,900 consecutive roll votes in the Senate, her service on the Republican Policy Committee, and added that she always did her "homework" in studying important issues and proposed legislation.

"Sometimes, on the larger issues, I voted against party wishes, but I was not sent to Washington to follow the party line. I was sent to exercise my own judgement and my own conscience and to vote according to what I thought was best for the majority of the people."

During her five days on the campus, Mrs. Smith expressed her views on a wide range of subjects. A few of her comments on various topics follow:

Former Senator Margaret Chase Smith fields questions during a press conference at Juniata.

WOMEN — "I think women are people and should be able to work in any field or position for which they are qualified, but every time we have an appointment of a woman who is not qualified, it stops progress for awhile . . . When we have equal rights, we cannot also expect special treatment. A woman should carry her own responsibility and not depend on personal attractions or special favors . . . I think being a housewife and a mother is a highly honorable position, but we are sometimes apologetic and say that we are 'only a housewife.' In that respect, we are sometimes our own worst enemies."

THE DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE — "I don't think it will have an especially good effect. It will take the Democrats some time to come to grips with their large majority. There are so many that it will be difficult for the leadership to keep them in line. I think a Congress is more effective if it is more nearly in balance."

PRESIDENT FORD — "He started with tremendous popularity and support. I would like it if he would be more firm and direct in his approach and I think he should have delayed in the matter of the pardon . . . I think he is sincerely trying and I had admiration for him when he went out over the country campaigning — doing exactly what Mr. Nixon did not do and should have done in my opinion — trying to get more members of his party in Congress to help him put through the program he has in mind."

THE PRESS — "I think we are generally getting the news. I would like it better if we could always be sure of whether we are reading fact or personal opinion."

AMNESTY — "I am very much opposed to amnesty. I feel that we should not be rewarding those who broke the law until we take full care of those who made the sacrifices."

STUDENTS — "I was pretty disappointed with what I was seeing back in 1969, 1970 and 1971, but I think there has been a great change since then. I hesitate to say this because it sounds as though I'm being patronizing, but on this campus I see a real dedication, a real earnestness, a desire for the facts. The students have a great sense of responsibility about what lies ahead and they want to prepare for it as best they can. I say this with great sincerity and with feeling."

WOMEN'S LEAGUE: Four Decades of Service

For more than 40 years, the Women's League of Juniata College has been conducting projects to enhance the beauty of the campus and provide other amenities which the College would not ordinarily purchase with operating funds.

The most recent of these projects was the erection of signs, costing almost $1,000, on or near Founders Hall in the central portion of the campus. The signs, blending tastefully with the architecture, welcome visitors and indicate the locations of buildings and offices.

In expressing his gratitude to the officers of the Women's League, President Stauffer said: "We would have you know of our gratitude for your ever-present helpfulness toward the College. Just now we thank you for providing signs which will aid visitors in finding their way about the campus and in identifying various buildings. We expect to continue the process of building identification and look forward to your continued help in this project. Thank you for all that you and your members mean to Juniata."

At the first meeting of the league in 1932, the women decided that the purpose of their organization would be to "promote the general advancement and interests" of the College. The league has the same purpose today.

The newly erected signs are simply the latest in a long list of projects the league has sponsored. Its members also raised funds to furnish the lounges in several dormitories, to provide curtains for the stage in Oller Auditorium, and to plant flowers and shrubs around a number of campus buildings, including Leshner Hall, and the Brumbaugh Science Center.

In addition, the league sponsors the Rebecca C. Barrick Language Award, a $100 stipend given each spring to a junior student with a distinguished record in language studies.

Moreover, the league also helps to form a closer relationship between the College and the community of Huntingdon. About 400 Huntingdon County residents are members of the league. Some are Juniata graduates, but many are not.

Mrs. David A. Kreider '68 has recently been elected to a two-year term as president, succeeding Mrs. William E. Swigart, Jr. Other newly elected officers are Mrs. Paul E. Whitsel '48, vice president; Mrs. William E. Russey, secretary, and Mrs. Ernest J. Steel, treasurer.

Committee chairwomen are Mrs. William E. Swigart, Jr., and Mrs. Dale L. Wampler '58, Membership; Mrs. Floyd A. Roller, Publicity; Mrs. Chalender H. Leshner, Special Projects; Mrs. Kermit L. Laney, China and Aluminum; Mrs. Helen H. Mierley '25, Golden Books; Mrs. F. Harold Fink '43, Rebecca C. Barrick Language Award, and Mrs. Clayton N. Pheasant '65, Continental Breakfast.

Through its various projects, the league has been contributing about $1,000 a year to the College. Most of the funds are raised through the collection of dues, occasional "white elephant" sales, and a "Continental Breakfast" each spring.

Attractive signs, welcoming visitors and indicating the locations of various offices and facilities, are the latest campus beautification project sponsored by the Women's League of Juniata College.

MARY DADISMAN: A Useful, Satisfying Career

By DR. RAYMOND R. STAYER

(Dr. Stayer, a 1922 graduate of the Juniata Academy, has a dental practice in Denver, Pa., and travels to Nigeria each January where he donates his professional services for a month at missionary clinics. It was on these trips that he formed a strong admiration for Mary Dadisman and her work.)

Few Juniata students have the opportunity for such a varied, adventurous and satisfying career as that which Mary Dadisman '41 has enjoyed during more than three decades as a missionary nurse in Nigeria.

To a host of Nigerians, she is the beloved "Sister," the traditional British term for the head nurse of a hospital. To her fellow American missionaries, she is known affectionately as "Mary D."

Her first assignment in Nigeria, shortly after she graduated from Juniata, was to establish a school for the children of Brethren missionaries. Before then, the children had to be sent to the United States to live with friends or relatives for all of their education. At first, she was the only teacher at the school, which now has some 600 students whose missionary parents represent eight denominational groups.

In 1947 she was assigned to the position of nursing superintendent at the Garkida General Hospital. The hospital lacks much in physical equipment, but good housekeeping is evident everywhere. There is a place for everything and everything is in its place. Many able physicians have come and gone over the years, but Sister Mary's administration has kept the hospital on an even keel.

With black Nigerians gradually acquiring more education and skills, she has relinquished many of the actual nursing duties and has concentrated more on administrative details and on teaching young men and women to assume such responsibilities as dispensers, nurses and midwives.

She received her training in nursing at the Bethany Brethren Hospital in Chicago and she also did graduate work at the Frontier Nursing School in Kentucky during one of her furloughs.

During the Nigerian Civil War, she was relieved of her regular assignments to do relief work.

There have been a number of instances in which she has had to improvise quickly in emergencies. On one occasion, while she was trying to keep a hospital in operation at Lassa with a visiting doctor available only one day a week, a man slashed his throat in a suicide attempt. Making radio contact with a doctor 60 miles away, she followed the doctor's directions and saved the man's life.

Few persons give and receive as much love as that which passes between Mary Dadisman and her many Nigerian friends.

Mary Dadisman '41 (right) has been a missionary nurse in Nigeria for more than 30 years.

CENTENNIAL FUND REPORT: Campaign Passes $2.1 Million

President Stauffer congratulates Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Caulton '29 following the initial report on the first phase of the 41 regional alumni campaigns. The Caultons, who are chairing the alumni campaign, reported that 68 percent of the first-phase goal was already committed.

Shirley Lingenfelter '55, president of Juniata College's National Alumni Association, fills out her Centennial Fund pledge card. Looking on are her husband, Wes '55, and Isabelle and Cy Caulton '29, alumni campaign co-chairmen.

With some $2.1 million committed toward a goal of $5 million, Juniata College is campaigning actively among its various constituencies. The Juniata Centennial Fund is the final phase of an eight-year, $10.1-million development program known as the "Margin of Difference."

During the period from 1968 to 1972, Phases I and II of the Margin of Difference effort were successfully completed, raising $5.3 million for the endowment fund, for Ellis Hall and for general educational advances. These successes set the stage for the Centennial Fund, which is aimed at preparing the College for its second century of service.

President John N. Stauffer announced that gifts and pledges had passed the $2.1-million mark as he made a progress report on the fund before a group of alumni and friends at an "Appreciation Dinner." The dinner, held on the campus on Homecoming weekend, was attended by more than 360 persons.

"With the first year of the campaign successfully behind us, we now look forward with anticipation to the final completion of this major development effort by 1976, when the College celebrates its Centennial," Dr. Stauffer said.

The enlargement of the endowment fund has been identified as the most meaningful and lasting way for Juniata's constituents to prepare for the Centennial. Financial stability and educational enrichment, which an increased endowment can provide, are the conditions which must prevail if Juniata's innovative educational program is to continue to succeed — indeed, if the College itself is to have significance for the future. This calls for the building of an endowment fund which will support, in addition to other goals, the following four objectives: (1) encouraging sound teaching through adequate faculty compensation; (2) an improved capacity for assisting needy and promising students; (3) professional development of the faculty and support of scholarly and research activities, at least some of which would call for student involvement; (4) sponsoring events which enrich the cultural life of the College community and our neighbors in Central Pennsylvania. We believe these conditions to be fundamental, even as new, creative and self-revitalizing efforts are pursued in succeeding decades.

Juniata's endowment fund presently totals $5,458,119 or almost twice the $2.8 million it contained in 1968. Our goal now is to come as close as possible to doubling the endowment again with gifts and pledges of at least an additional $5 million by 1976. As we have already noted, it is believed that this is the most important and the most substantial way to insure the College's future strength and usefulness.

Because of the concern and dedication of the members of the Board of Trustees, and the leaders of all segments of the College's constituency, Juniata has been able to conduct its fund-raising efforts without the help of professional counsel. We have been most fortunate in the remarkable extent of volunteer involvement and personal giving on the part of trustees, alumni, and leaders of the surrounding community.

Strong constituent support from off-campus, and continual striving on the campus toward educational soundness and vitality, will insure Juniata's worth and usefulness to the students and the free society which the College is privileged to serve.

RCA Contributes $5,000 To Centennial Fund Drive

Juniata has received a grant of $5,000 from RCA, it was announced by President Stauffer.

Dr. Stauffer said the corporation provided the grant as a contribution to the Juniata Centennial Fund, which has a goal of $5 million by 1976. The Centennial Fund is designed to strengthen the College's capacity for providing a sound liberal arts education. The most urgent need is for the enlargement of the endowment fund, which currently exceeds $5 million. It was approximately $2.8 million in 1968 at the beginning of the Margin of Difference development program.

"We acknowledge with gratitude RCA's gift of $5,000 to the Juniata Centennial Fund," Dr. Stauffer remarked in a letter expressing the appreciation of the college community. "The gift itself is of very substantial benefit and, in addition, it is beneficial to be recognized in this way in a world-renowned company such as RCA."

Charles C. Ellis '40, RCA senior vice president-finance, is general chairman of the fund, while retired RCA executive C. O. Caulton '29 is serving as the alumni co-chairman, along with his wife, Isabelle, also '29.

Meditch Gives Roundball Picture a New Look

By CHARLIE POLLOCK

When Juniata's 71st basketball season gets underway Dec. 4, quite a few familiar faces will be taking to the court. But one new face, that of first-year coach Carl Meditch, should be all it takes to give the whole picture a very different look.

In the wake of three straight losing campaigns, including last year's 8-17, "only the names will remain the same." The incidents, to turn Dragnet's style around, will be changed to protect the innocent.

Just obzoning the power of positive thinking, Meditch has parlayed new outlooks, new ideas and a change of direction to develop the Tribe's "New Breed."

"We're looking at the season realistically," said Meditch. "After three losing years, the squad needs to make a few mental adjustments before we can have a winning situation. But we're very optimistic, also, and I think the fans will like what they see."

Meditch has been working with some 20 hopefuls, including 10 letter-winning veterans. Five of last season's top six scorers return for action this year, including 6-5 forward Donnie Williams, first team all-conference as a sophomore last season and ECAC Rookie of the Year in 1973.

Among the overall bright spots to date, aggressiveness gets first nod. "Rebounding strength could easily be tops, but with that I wasn't surprised. What really came as a most pleasant shock was aggressiveness. We've worked some 75 percent of the time on aggressive defensive tactics, and the team has really come around."

"The candidates reported in good physical condition," notes Meditch. "They obviously anticipated a change of direction, and obviously worked hard before practice began. This will be a definite plus. We've also got good quickness and good team speed."

In addition, Meditch has been quite impressed with the prospect of excellent depth. "We've got a lot of people back with similar size, strength, speed and shooting abilities, so we should be able to substitute freely—in at least four spots—without giving too much away. This is important, especially given our new philosophy of pressing defense. In all, the defense should be much improved."

Offensively, Meditch is giving little away. He has geared his major attack, he reports, "to allow any player to score. We'll play a variety of teams, however, so we'll use a varied offensive attack, aiming to get certain people free depending on the other squad's weakness." In that largely unexposed bag of tricks, one thing stands out for sure: "We'll use the fast break every chance we get."

On the "weakness" side of the ledger, Meditch lists three things: (1) the period of adjustment, adapting to new techniques and a new coaching philosophy; (2) an Indian tendency, displayed all too often last year, to be inconsistent throughout a full game; and (3) a lack of really outstanding raw talent.

The first, he feels, will be over soon. The second must be overcome with time. The third, he is certain, will be far overshadowed by hustle and desire.

Meditch looks to all his squad "to contribute in some kind of way." He feels his seniors, guards Greg Ruffo and Mark Jula, will provide necessary maturity. "I'm also pleased with Ruffo's aggressiveness and defensive ability," he says, "and with Jula's ability to handle the ball."

Among his many juniors, he singles out forward Bill Bickel, whose knee troubles seem to have healed, as "fundamentally very sound. Perhaps the soundest player on the team." But Meditch also expects good things from Williams, for two years running the Indian leader in both scoring and rebounding; 6-5 center Tim Tabor, second to Williams in both columns last year; guard Oscar Hatchett, assist leader two seasons straight; forward Don Martin, number six scorer last year; and forward Rich Balch, who saw limited action as a transfer last year.

Among the sophomores who played as freshmen, Meditch will call on guard Tim Brady and forwards Craig Shrift and Chris Rowan.

A fine crop of freshmen is led, says Meditch, by forwards Pat Nagle and Larry Moore and guard Steve Rossi. The 6-5 Nagle, out of nearby Altoona High School, was honorable mention, all-state last season, and played in the Dapper Dan Roundball Classic. Moore, after a fine career at Williamsport High School, has transferred from Williamsport Community College, while Rossi hails from nearby Hollidaysburg.

Other freshmen showing promise include guard Steve Morgan and forward Mike Preslock.

"Our workouts," says Meditch, "have been long, hard and basic. We have to work to the limits—there's so much to cover in so little time. I guess you might call our pre-season practice a crash reeducation course." If Meditch has his way, the "New Breed" should pass with flying colors, and may teach the rest of the league a lesson in turn.

WRESTLING

While the cager faces remain, for the most part, familiar, and the outlook is something new, wrestling coach Bill Berrier must cautiously gird for just the reverse: lots of fresh faces, but the same old less-than-gleaming prospects.

"To be honest," he confided early this month, "we can hope for a 6-8 season at best. Anything near .500 is shooting for the moon."

Berrier said one of the new things on the Juniata wrestling scene this year is a pair of quadrangular meets, swelling to 14 the number of opponents the Indians will face during the season.

Also new, unhappily, are the spaces left by Captain Myron Zimmerman, the Tribe's top grappler last winter, and big Steve Oak, who has transferred under a pre-med program to Duke University. Oak was 5-6 last year, Zimmerman 7-5-1.

The outlook depends to a large extent on football players, Berrier added. Speaking while the football season was still in progress, he noted that "with the football players, we could have a fairly balanced, established team. Without them, we'll have to jockey men from weight to weight."

At any rate, inexperience was expected to plague the Tribe again. It appeared that half the starting slots would go to freshmen. Only one senior, Mark Brown, was on the roster. Such a factor could hurt severely in the face of seasoned competition and the Indians face a great deal of that: Gettysburg, Lycoming and Elizabethtown, among others.

Freshmen had the inside track in the first three weights: Ed Rosensteel at 118, Bill Brooks at 126, and Brian Ashworth, Steve Denison or Bob Thompson at 134. Brown and sophomore Randy Good were battling at 142, while freshman griddler Barry Eck had the nod at 150.

At 158, frosh Chuck Yarnell and Bill Bruner were listed, while at 167 a trio of sophomores—transfer Steve Harper, Bruce Bowen and Steve Shultis—provided the competition.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The women cagers, unlike the other winter teams, don't have much room to move up. At 6-2, they provided the only winning record during the snowy season last year as they lost only to Gettysburg and Indiana. Verne Wetzel, the MVP, has graduated, but junior Kim Norris, number-two scorer, is back, as are sophomore Mardi Frye (number three), and senior Sue Rosshirt (number four). Norris and Rosshirt are guards, Frye is the center.

Ed Gaugula, guidance counselor in the Huntingdon Area Schools, is the team's new coach, replacing Pat Frazer.

Entering but its third varsity campaign, the women's team will play an expanded 10-game schedule, adding the likes of Bucknell and Susquehanna. A jayvee team will also play six games.

Juniata Adds New Program in "Peace And Conflict Studies" to Curriculum

A new program of "Peace and Conflict Studies" is being added to the Juniata curriculum. President John N. Stauffer said many of the College's students and faculty members had expressed "a concern for peace and a growing awareness of the dangers posed by violent forms of human conflict."

"In response to this concern, Juniata has developed an interdisciplinary program of Peace and Conflict Studies," Dr. Stauffer continued, "combining aspects of the social sciences and the humanities, exploring the causes and consequences of human conflicts, and searching for ways to resolve those conflicts."

Dr. Klaus Kipphan, associate professor of history, chaired the faculty-student planning committee for the Peace and Conflict Studies. He is widely known for his own studies of the Nuremberg war crimes trials and he has been invited to speak on this subject in December at the annual meeting of the American Historical Association.

Dr. Kipphan said Juniata students can concentrate in Peace and Conflict Studies or they can simply take a course or two in the field. They also can study human conflicts from the point of view or a particular discipline such as economics, history, literature, political science, psychology, religion or sociology.

In fact, a course entitled "Introduction to Peace Studies" deals with the approaches of scholars from various disciplines to peace analysis and research. The course is taught jointly by Dr. Martin Clark, assistant professor of sociology and religion, and the Rev. M. Andrew Murray, campus minister and instructor in religion. A number of guest lecturers also participate.

Other courses offered this year as a part of the Peace and Conflict Studies are "International Politics," taught by Dr. Milton M. da Silva, assistant professor of political science, and "The Trials of the Major Nazi War Criminals at Nuremberg," taught by Dr. Kipphan.

"International Politics" deals with such issues as nuclear deterrence, arms control and disarmament, international trade and development, and the problems of regional integration.

In addition, a number of courses which various departments of the College have been offering are related to some aspects of peace studies.

Moreover, students can develop independent research topics and arrange for tutorials on a one-to-one basis with faculty members or for off-campus internships or study. Juniata has cooperative arrangements with several other colleges and universities, allowing students to spend a year abroad or part of a year in the New York area studying the United Nations or in Washington, D.C., studying the U.S. federal government.

Other faculty members at Juniata participating in the Peace and Conflict Studies as consultants or guest lecturers are Dr. Earl C. Kaylor, Jr., Charles A. Dana Supported Professor of Religion and History; George T. Dolnikowski, associate professor of Russian and German, and Dr. Harry V. Klug, professor of political science.

As an introduction to the new program, the College conducted a "Colloquy on War and Peace" last spring. The chief topic of the colloquy was the cost of national defense. Speakers representing the armed forces and organizations advocating reductions in military spending presented their conflicting points of view.

Two additional courses which will be added to the Peace and Conflict Studies program in 1975-76 are "Tolstoy: His Life and Message" and "War and Conscience in America." They will be taught by Professors Dolnikowski and Kaylor.
